

CREDIT RECOVERY & SUSPENSION ALTERNATIVES

Credit Recovery Guide

Live

certified teachers, not self-paced software alone.

How to choose a program that helps high school students make up credits and graduate on time.

HOW CREDIT RECOVERY WORKS

Students retake the content of a course they didn't pass, focusing on what they didn't master. Programs use self-paced courseware, live instruction from a teacher, or a blend of both.

The challenge, and how Fullmind solves it

The challenge	With Fullmind
❗ Students who struggled once often stall in self-paced software.	✅ A live, certified teacher who explains, answers questions and keeps students moving.
❗ Courses don't match district requirements.	✅ Courses aligned to your approved coursework and credit requirements.
❗ Credit decisions without good data.	✅ Progress and attendance data your school can use for credit decisions.
❗ Recovery only happens in summer.	✅ Flexible scheduling during the school year, too.

Why it matters Live educator support helps students pursue course completion while keeping school teams informed about their progress.

5 questions to ask any provider

- 1 Is instruction live, self-paced or both?
- 2 Are teachers certified in the subjects students need?
- 3 How are courses aligned to our credit requirements?
- 4 What data will we get for credit decisions?
- 5 Can students enroll during the school year?

How to fund it

Often Title I, Part A and state or local funds, especially for students at risk of not graduating. Check allowable uses with your federal programs coordinator.

What a good program looks like

- A live, certified teacher
- Courses aligned to your credit requirements
- Data your school can use for credit decisions
- Flexible scheduling during the school year

How Fullmind helps

Create Another Path Forward
