Professional Learning Guide

Professional development that changes what happens in classrooms.

Ongoing

coaching tied to teachers' own classrooms, not one-time workshops.

WHAT EFFECTIVE PD LOOKS LIKE

Ongoing, connected to teachers' own classrooms, and focused on specific skills teachers can practice and get feedback on.

The challenge, and how Fullmind solves it

The challenge	With Fullmind
❗ One-time workshops that don't change classroom practice.	✅ One-on-one instructional coaching that continues over time.
❗ Training that isn't tied to your students.	✅ Coaching focused on teachers' own classrooms and students.
❗ Expertise you don't have locally.	✅ Live workshops on virtual instruction, curriculum alignment and data use.
❗ Hard to schedule around the school day.	✅ Online sessions that are easier to schedule, for teachers and school leaders.

Why it matters Help districts invest in educator capacity while navigating scheduling, staffing, and professional development demands.

4 questions to ask any provider

- 1 Is coaching one-on-one, in groups or both?
- 2 Which topics do you cover?
- 3 How is it tied to our curriculum and goals?
- 4 How do you measure the impact?

How to fund it

Commonly Title II, Part A, plus state and local funds. Check allowable uses with your federal programs coordinator.

What a good program looks like

- Ongoing coaching
- Focus on teachers' own classrooms
- Practical topics: curriculum alignment, data use, virtual instruction
- Options for teachers and school leaders
