

SPECIAL EDUCATION & RELATED SERVICES

Special education and related services with Fullmind: what to look forward to

Special education staffing gaps make it hard for schools to deliver the individualized support students need. Fullmind adds educators with Students with Disabilities certifications, case managers and licensed providers who work live, online, as part of the school's own team.

SWD services and resource rooms

Targeted live instruction on IEP goals and accommodations, with notifications to the school and on-platform progress monitoring, in collaboration with its special education team.

Case management

Coordinate communication across a student's support providers, support documentation and progress monitoring, and keep needs and services visible.

Related services

Provide speech-language pathology, occupational therapy, physical therapy, school psychology or mental health counseling, live, as an extension of the school team.

RELATED SERVICES

Specialists, live and online

Speech-language pathology

Articulation, language processing, fluency, social communication and AAC device support.

Occupational therapy

Fine motor and sensory skills, handwriting, self-care and assistive technology.

Physical therapy

Gross motor development, mobility and positioning, and accessibility planning.

School psychology

Psychoeducational evaluations, social-emotional support, FBA and BIP development, and 504 and IEP consultation.

Mental health counseling

Individual and group counseling, trauma-informed care, and anxiety and depression support.

School social work

Support for students and families, coordinated with the school team.

WHAT TO LOOK FORWARD TO

- Assignments that match your certification or license, and your state
- Serve students live and online, from home
- Flexible hours that vary by opportunity
- Work that follows each district's school year

HOW THE WORK FLOWS

Built around each student's plan

1

Align on needs

Review goals, accommodations and schedules with the school's special education team.

2

Deliver live support

Scheduled, real-time instruction or therapy, with an adult on site when the school provides one.

3

Document progress

Clear notes and progress monitoring toward each student's IEP goals.

4

Coordinate

Keep teachers, case managers, administrators and, when applicable, families aligned.

WHAT WE LOOK FOR

By role

Special education teachers

A state special education certification (for example mild to moderate or extensive support needs) and at least 3 years of experience.

Case managers

A special education background and experience coordinating IEP services with school teams.

Speech-language pathologists

A master's in speech-language pathology, an active state license (or reciprocity), and online school or IEP experience.

Occupational therapists

A master's or doctorate from an ACOTE-accredited program, a state OT license (or compact eligibility), and telepractice comfort.

Physical therapists

A doctorate in physical therapy from a CAPTE-accredited program, a passing NPTE score, and a state license.

School psychologists & counselors

A state school psychology credential, or an active LCSW, LPC or LMFT license, plus school experience.

Support from day one

Resources to understand each district's expectations, guides made for special educators and providers, and a real support team for technology and scheduling.

Part of the team

Work alongside special education teams, teachers and families, so every student's support stays connected.

OUR COMMITMENTS

- Student privacy, including secure access to IEP and 504 documents
- All communication stays inside a secure platform
- A clear protocol to act quickly if a student is in crisis
- Every educator and provider completes a background check and follows mandated reporting requirements
